Nous sommes Charlie: je suis Charlie

Un bel hommage à Charlie Hebdo: 'Je suis Charlie'. Pictures: Jan Klaassen and his wife Katrijn – old-Dutch hand puppet theatre figures. Illustration: Elsje Zwart (2015). Collection: Puppetry Museum/Poppenspe(e)lmuseum NL. Concept and text: OvdM (2015).

'Charlie Hebdo' – un journal hebdomadaire – is a French satirical weekly magazine featuring cartoons, reports, polemics, and jokes. Irreverent and stridently non-conformist in tone, the publication describes itself as above all secular and atheist, far-left-wing, and anti-racist publishing articles on the extreme right (especially the French nationalist National Front party), religion (Catholicism, Islam, Judaism), politics, culture, etc. According to its former editor Stéphane Charbonnier ('Charb'), the magazine's editorial viewpoint reflects 'all components of left wing pluralism, and even abstainers'.

The magazine has been the target of two terrorist attacks, in 2011 and in 2015 (7 January), presumed to be in response to a number of controversial Muhammad cartoons it published. In the second of these attacks, 12 people were killed, including Charbonnier and several contributors.
